In this note, we refresh our estimates to capture the impact of the December ABB, which led to limited technical dilution, partially offset by the premium at which it was executed. We also provide a preview of FY25 results, which are due to be released on 20th March, with no meaningful changes to our estimates. Recent management comments are supportive of our investment case, highlighting the favourable industry backdrop and increasing AI adoption.

■ Rights issue at a premium: in December, DHH carried out an institutional-only placement of a total of 354,916 shares via an accelerated bookbuilding process. Of these, 324,916 were newly issued (c.6% of the pre-deal share capital), while 30,000 shares (c.0.6%) were sold by COO Matija Jekovec. The placement price was set at €23 per share - an 11% premium to the 30-day VWAP - highlighting strong institutional demand. Total gross proceeds amounted to Eu8.2mn, of which Eu7.5mn was raised as primary capital. We view the transaction positively, as it (a) confirms solid institutional appetite at a premium to spot prices; (b) eliminates short-term overhang risk thanks to the 180-day lock-up; (c) strengthens financial firepower to support organic growth and M&A, adding strategic optionality not yet embedded in current valuations; and (d) expands the total free float, improving liquidity and potentially paving the way for a future move to the STAR segment.

■ Messages from recent CEO interview (link, 14th January) were supportive of our investment case: (a) FY25 results (due out 20th March) expected in line with consensus (total revenues ~€43mn, +15%; EBITDA ~€13.7mn; net profit ~€4.3mn); (b) the recent ABB at a premium was not driven by funding needs but aimed at broadening the investor base; (c) translisting to the STAR segment is a potential option; (d) M&A focused on selective, prudent scouting of autonomous targets with high-quality client portfolios; (e) favourable industry backdrop driven by cloud repatriation, data sovereignty and demand for compliant private cloud/AI solutions; (f) AI adoption is moving beyond hype, acting as an operational enabler, with early signs of strong customer uptake and emerging recurring revenues for DHH.

■ Change in estimates: Our FY25-28 sales, EBITDA and net profit projections remain practically unchanged; the increase in the number of shares in circulation implies a dilution of c.6% in 2026 - 27 EPS, however, while net income from the capital raise is forecast to have driven a positive net cash position of Eu2.4mn at the end of 2025.

■ BUY confirmed, new TP €32 (from €31). We are lifting our TP after rolling our DCF model forward by one year. At our new TP, the stock would trade at ~12x EV/EBITDA'26E (~9x at current prices), at a discount to larger listed peers and recent private deals (c.15-19x EV/EBITDA). We appreciate the company's strong commitment to embedding a sustainable growth trajectory through organic development and disciplined margin management, while proactively assessing external growth opportunities in both existing and new EU markets (e.g. France/Spain). Its solid financial structure and well-diversified revenue base underpin resilience, with no concerns on insolvency risks or revenue concentration.

GUIDE TO FUNDAMENTAL RESEARCH

The main methods used to evaluate financial instruments and set a target price for 12 months after the investment recommendation are as follows:

- Discounted cash flow (DCF) model or similar methods such as a dividend discount model (DDM)
- Comparison with market peers, using the most appropriate methods for the individual company analysed: among the main ratios used for industrial sectors are price/ earnings (P/E), EV/EBITDA, EV/EBIT, price /sales
- Return on capital and multiples of adjusted net book value are the main methods used for banking sector stocks, while for insurance sector stocks return on allocated capital and multiples on net book value and embedded portfolio value are used
- For the utilities sector comparisons are made between expected returns and the return on the regulatory asset base (RAB)

Some of the parameters used in evaluations, such as the risk-free rate and risk premium, are the same for all companies covered, and are updated to reflect market conditions. Currently a risk-free rate of 4.0% and a risk premium between 5.5% - 6.0% are being used.

Frequency of research: quarterly.

Reports on all companies listed on the FTSEMIIB40 Index, most of those on the MIDEX Index and the main small caps (regular coverage) are published at least once per quarter to comment on results and important newsflow.

A draft copy of each report may be sent to the subject company for its information (without target price and/or recommendations), but unless expressly stated in the text of the report, no changes are made before it is published.
