Yesterday ENI presented its new 5-year 2026-30 Strategic Plan, which highlighted a stronger E&P production growth profile, improved cashflow generation targets and an enhanced distribution policy for shareholders. In addition, ENI announced the deconsolidation of Plenitude, through a Eu1.5bn non-proportional capital raise, to support growth. We are updating our projections, primarily to reflect higher oil and gas price assumptions. Target price increased to Eu22.0ps. NEUTRAL confirmed.

- New 2026-30 Strategic Plan. Yesterday ENI presented its new 5-year 2026-30 strategic plan. Thanks to strong organic growth expected in Upstream and the innovative self-financing 'Satellite model' in Transition businesses, ENI envisages improved cashflow generation in the coming years, allowing an enhanced distribution policy.
- Plenitude deconsolidation. ENI also announced a reorganisation of Plenitude's shareholding structure, resulting in the deconsolidation of Plenitude from ENI's financial statements. The transaction involves a Eu1.5bn non-proportional capital raise, of which at least Eu1bn provided by Ares (100% pre-money equity valuation of Eu10.75bn, EV Eu13.1bn). Following the capital raise, ENI's stake will be diluted to 60-65%, while it will maintain a joint control agreement with Ares.
- Financial targets. Based on ENI's new macro assumptions (Brent 2026 at US$70/bl gradually rising to US$84/bl in 2030, gas PSV 2026 at Eu36/MWh, gradually declining to Eu27/MWh in 2030), it provided the following key targets: for 2026, Group CFFO at Eu11.5bn (vs. Eu12.5bn in 2025), Gross CapEx at Eu7.0bn, Net CapEx at Eu5.0bn, Leverage 0.10-0.15x. Over the 5Y plan period, cumulative CFFO is foreseen at around Eu71bn (Eu14bn yearly average). Cumulative 2026-30 Gross CapEx is indicated at Eu29bn (< Eu6bn yearly average vs. Eu8bn in last year's plan), with Net CapEx seen at Eu25bn (Eu5bn yearly average vs. Eu7bn). ENI sees CFFO/share growing at 14% CAGR to 2030, driven by improved performance and accretive growth in its businesses.
- Enhanced distribution policy for shareholders. ENI improved its distribution policy, based on the distribution of a percentage of annual CFFO (35-45%, up from last year's 35-40%) by way of a combination of dividends and share buybacks. The proposed 2026 DPS has been raised to Eu1.10 (+5%), while the share buyback for 2026 will amount to Eu1.5bn. In upside scenarios, up to a Brent price of US$90/bl, ENI will distribute 60% of incremental CFFO to shareholders via buybacks. Above this level, ENI will pay 100% of incremental cashflow as an extraordinary dividend.
- Updated estimates and valuation. Following growing supply disruptions in the Middle East, we are further increasing our oil and gas price assumptions (Brent 2026-27-28 US$85-75-70/bl; gas PSV Eu50-35-25/MWh). We are also slightly raising Upstream volumes, increasing 2026 margins for GGP and Refining, while trimming them for Petrochemicals. These changes translate into a 63-23-6% upward revision to 2026-27-28 EPS. Our numbers still do not reflect the deconsolidation of Plenitude. As for the valuation, we are lifting our target price from Eu19.0ps to Eu22.0ps, still based on a mix of DCF and SoP.

GUIDE TO FUNDAMENTAL RESEARCH

The main methods used to evaluate financial instruments and set a target price for 12 months after the investment recommendation are as follows:

- Discounted cash flow (DCF) model or similar methods such as a dividend discount model (DDM)
- Comparison with market peers, using the most appropriate methods for the individual company analysed: among the main ratios used for industrial sectors are price/ earnings (P/E), EV/EBITDA, EV/EBIT, price /sales
- Return on capital and multiples of adjusted net book value are the main methods used for banking sector stocks, while for insurance sector stocks return on allocated capital and multiples on net book value and embedded portfolio value are used
- For the utilities sector comparisons are made between expected returns and the return on the regulatory asset base (RAB)

Some of the parameters used in evaluations, such as the risk-free rate and risk premium, are the same for all companies covered, and are updated to reflect market conditions. Currently a risk-free rate of 4.0% and a risk premium between 5.5% - 6.0% are being used.

Frequency of research: quarterly.

Reports on all companies listed on the FTSEMIB40 Index, most of those on the MIDEX Index and the main small caps (regular coverage) are published at least once per quarter to comment on results and important newsflow.

A draft copy of each report may be sent to the subject company for its information (without target price and/or recommendations), but unless expressly stated in the text of the report, no changes are made before it is published.
